FILM TAKES ON NEW MEANING AT THE MIAMI FILM LIFE CENTER

The Miami Film Life Center launch their educational programming for the residents of Overtown and surrounding communities with an official members Meet and Greet to kick-off a month of events.

(AUGUST 26, 2013) -MIAMI, FL. - The month of September is sure to be remembered as the Miami Film Life Center launches its first month of community events. Members are invited to an official Meet and Greet event, a series of master classes, film screenings and micro workshops throughout the month.

The Miami Film Life Center (MFLC) is a South-Florida based arts institute with a focus on youth education, job training, and professional redevelopment. By providing resources, training programs, and networking opportunities to the underserved and disadvantaged residents, the Center hopes to stimulate interest and support new and emerging filmmakers.

On September 5, starting at 5:30pm the first event is a Members Meet and Greet which will take place at the Chapman House, which is on the grounds of Booker T. Washington Senior High School, 1200 NW 6th Ave, Miami, FL. Guests are advised to RSVP by calling 305.326.0535.

A film screening of the award winning independent film, Better Mus' Come is scheduled for Thursday September 12. Based on the Green Bay Massacre that happened in Jamaica in 1978, a Q&A session with award winning Jamaican director, Storm Saulter will follow. The screening begins at 5:30pm and will be held at Camillus House, 336 NW 5th St. Miami, FL. 33128. Admission is free and open to the general public.

The month will conclude with a Micro Educational Workshop on Wednesday September 25, 2013 featuring entertainment and business attorney, Nyanza Shaw, Esq. The principal and founder of Shaw Esquire and Associates, Shaw will give informative insights and expertise on film industry contracts, copyright, legal issues. The event will take place at the Chapman House on the grounds of Booker T. Washington High School, 1200 NW 6th Ave, Miami FL, 33136. Seats are limited and members are advised to RSVP by calling 305.326.0535.

All workshops are free to members of the center. Membership is free for a limited time.
